

Patricia Sullivan Haitian Outreach Foundation

Dear Friends:

On behalf of the Patricia Sullivan Haitian Outreach Foundation, I would like to thank each and every one of you for your previous support. Although it is sometimes difficult to see, your efforts have continued to help promote the Foundations' core mission of improving lives in Haiti. It is important to remember the words of the old axiom;

"To the world you might be one person but to one person, you may be the world"

Due to your previous generosity, please note the accomplishments of this past year:

- Al Balko School completes its 3rd full year of operation
- Serves students in Grades PK – 9 (over 350 students)
- Al Balko School provides students in this remote area an education and, more importantly, the life empowerment skills necessary for a better life.

I am writing you today to share my excitement of a new project, "Domond Professional School" (overview attached). I have had an opportunity to witness firsthand, the progression of many students as they move from childhood along the path to becoming successful adults. These observations along with multiple discussions with local community leaders have exposed an education gap that with your help, the Foundation would like to support.

Domond is located 2 hours from the capital, Port-au-Prince. While institutions like the Al Balko School give students a much needed education, students who wish to further their education after high school, will need to move to the Capital, if they can afford to do so. As a result of these discussions and the circumstances described above, coupled with the Foundations' recent acquisition of a small tract of land directly behind the Louise Mulligan Mission House, the Board of the Foundation has decided to embark upon this project.

We feel the Professional School in Domond represents the logical next step towards a better life for the people of Domond through empowerment and self-determination.

Please consider donating, for all funding (100%) goes directly to this project. I have provided a self-addressed envelope for your convenience or you may go to the Foundation's website at www.haitianoutreach.org and donate. I personally thank you for your consideration of this important addition to Domond. Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions.

Warm Regards,

Patricia Sullivan Haitian Outreach Foundation
